

27 February 2018

IICL Director Technical Services Position Available

After more than 17 years as the IICL's Director Technical Services, Gary Danback, has advised his intention to retire. The IICL recognizes and thanks Mr. Danback for the tremendous contributions that he has made representing the technical interests of the IICL Members and the intermodal industry overall.

The IICL is seeking a qualified candidate to continue and build upon the strong foundation laid for IICL Technical Services, and is now accepting applications from candidates interested in the position.

The Director Technical Services is the primary individual within the Institute of International Container Lessors, Ltd. (IICL) who interfaces with members, industry and public concerning technical matters pertaining to leased intermodal containers, chassis and related equipment.

The incumbent is responsible for the development of IICL certification examinations, educational courses, IICL technical manuals and bulletins, which are utilized worldwide in the maintaining of safe and operationally sound intermodal equipment around the world.

The Director is the key staff member who advises the IICL Technical Committee (TC), facilitates presentation of TC recommendations to the IICL Board of Directors and implements the recommendations when approved.

A copy of the Job Description for the Director Technical Services and a link to apply can be found at: <https://www.iicl.org/careers/>

For more information please contact: iiclhr@iicl.org